Coding and Hackathons

Passion and Interests

- I love coding because it allows me to solve problems creatively and build digital solutions that make a difference.
- Hackathons are one of my favorite experiences , I enjoy the fast pace, teamwork, and the challenge of turning ideas into working projects.
- I've had the chance to create fully responsive websites and scalable e-commerce platforms during these events, which taught me a lot about meeting deadlines and delivering results.
- Working with technologies like Next.js, React, and TypeScript excites me because they allow me to build impactful and dynamic applications.
- I'm always eager to learn and explore new tools and techniques to improve my skills and stay ahead in the tech world.
- Integrating AI into my projects is something I find fascinating, as it opens up endless possibilities for innovative and user-friendly solutions.
